

Housing Unit Density

Existing residential development is lower than it could be. Of all the residential land in Duluth, 77% could add new housing units before reaching the target density set for the city in the Future Land Use Map.

